CROSSES OCEAN TO WED MAN OF HEART'S DESIRE

A very pretty wedding took place at the Church of England on Friday evening, when J. F. Wilding, a well known local business man and operating under the name of "My Brother," was united in marriage with Miss Ethel Hunt, late of Preston, Lancashire, England. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Plan, was largely attended by the friends of the couple. The bride was given away by Mr. H. Q. King, while Miss Mott acted as bridesmaid. Mr. J. D. Micklethwait acted as best man.

The romance extends over a period of several years. Miss Hunt coming direct from England to Wainwright last week. They will reside over Mr. Wilding's store on Second Avenue.

COAL DISCOVERED IN CELLAR OF FIRE HALL

There is every reason to believe that a certain portion of the business sections of the town is underlain with a valuable deposit of coal. A few weeks ago, when the fire hall was being built, a hole was made in the cellar of the hall, the auger drill displaced about two feet of the substance thus disclosing a grade of lignite that is considered of some domestic value. Immediately after the find, several citizens visited the spot and investigated the nature of the deposit. It was the opinion that the seam was of considerable depth and and probably ran in a north westerly direction. The coal was discovered at a depth of thirty seven feet below the surface of the ground and in a very compact form. The strata beneath and immediately under a soft formation that yields one of the best supplies of water in the town, there being more than twenty five feet of water in the well at the present time. This would go to prove that the seam is of considerable depth from the fact that the water does not percolate through it.

It was considered wise to discontinue with the boring after about two feet of the deposit had been placed, in case the seam after being bored through would thus draw away and injure the abundant supply of water. There is every reason to suppose, however, that the seam is of considerable depth and in large quantities.

The fact of such a discovery being made has confirmed to a certain extent the belief that the town is entirely underlain with coal. Very few wells have been sunk to such a depth as that at the fire hall cellar, which would lead one to suppose that it might exist all over the town at the same depth. Mr. Hall states that this is the second time he has taken coal from wells in the district, the first one being at the farm of George Kessler, who lives north east of town. He further states that the deposit, struck at that place, was at a depth of thirty nine feet from the ground level. There is a possibility that the seam extends in that direction from the town, although such could not be recognized as a proof that it does.

Since the find, the town has been in a state of excitement and it is not at all unlikely that further investigations will follow, that will no doubt produce favorable results.

EDITORS UNANIMOUS IN OPINION THAT WAINWRIGHT OFFERED MOST UNIQUE FORM OF ENTERTAINMENT

Words too Expressive Could not be Used by Party of English Editors to Describe Admirable Way in which Wainwright Received Them and their Enjoyment of Most Interesting and Unique Day Passed in Canada -- Banquet in their Honor Last Night.

After a royal reception having been accorded them by the local Board of Trade, the party of English editors arriving here yesterday afternoon in company with R. C. W. Lett, Colonization Agent for the G. T. P., left for Scott at twelve o'clock last night. A duck dinner was served last evening at the Wainwright Hotel to which the members of the Board of Trade, town councillors and several prominent businessmen were present. They are now on the last leg of their journey through Canada and state that the trip has been one of marvelous revelations. They have visited every centre of interest throughout the entire country and have found no centre, which affords better opportunities than Wainwright and the district.

Immediately on their arrival here, they were conveyed to the Buffalo Park by Secretary King of the Board of Trade and Superintendent Ellis of the Buffalo Park and shown the animals in their natural conditions. A large herd was witnessed a short distance from the gate, after which the several other animals in the park were also viewed. On their return here, they expressed great delight at having viewed the largest herd of buffalo in the world. After their visit to the park, they were taken to the farm of C. S. Newpork, east of town where they witnessed brought hocking exhibitions, put on by several accommodating individuals for the amusement of the visitors.

The duck banquet, given in the evening at the Wainwright Hotel, was of special interest. Good feeling and appreciation of the hospitality offered was paramount. Each of the guests mingled with the hosts with a sentiment of harmony, realizing that the town was willing and ready at all times to extend the hand of welcome and hospitality. President Lally, of the Board of Trade, who occupied the chair, welcomed the visitors in a clayre address and expressed the wish that their visit to Wainwright had been a pleasant one. One resuming his seat, George Harcourt, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, who accompanied the party, spoke briefly concerning what he had seen, stating that he was certain of the fact that the party had witnessed one of the best and most varied day's entertainment since entering the West. Other members of the party, who followed Mr. Harcourt, were of the same opinion and stated that they would carry away many pleasant impressions of Wainwright and the citizens, who had made it the thriving town of today. Mayor Pawling also spoke and extended a hearty welcome to the visitors. Being a pioneer, he hoped that none but the best of impressions would be borne away to Old England.

GRADING ABOUT FINISHED

The grading on Main Street is now about finished, the leveling of the street yet remaining to be done. Arthur Johnston of Greenhills, who received the contract for the work, has rushed the work to completion in view of the fact that there is a large amount of grading to be done before winter.

Irma's Fall Fair starts Friday, September 22nd. Posters are out announcing fare and one third race between Edmonson and Charvin on the Grand Trunk Pacific. It is expected that many local people will visit the exhibition.

J. Obed Smith, Assistant Commissioner of Emigration, who is in charge of the party, spoke in glowing terms of the members of the party and was certain that they would carry away a splendid impression of Wainwright after such hospitable had been given.

Other addresses were given by General Colonization Agent Spiers, R. C. W. Lett, and other members of the distinguished party, all expressing themselves as delighted with what they had seen of Wainwright and the hospitality shown them. W. E. Campbell of the International Securities Co., who was a guest at the banquet, spoke in glowing terms of the great West and was confident that Wainwright had a great future before it. Each and every member of the party were unanimous in their assertions that their visit to Wainwright was one of the most interesting and unique they had yet experienced in Canada.

Those included in the party follow:—Mr. W. Alexander, editor of Aberdeen Press Press; James F. Chaparr, editor Westminster Gazette; Thomas Myles, manager Irish Post; Edgar Rowan of the London Daily Chronicle; J. W. Sturmer of the Sheffield Daily Independent; R. C. W. Lett, Colonization Agent of the G. T. P.; J. Obed Smith, Dominion General Colonization Agent; George Harcourt, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Alberta; W. E. Campbell of the International Securities Co., Winnipeg. Others attending the banquet from town were: President Lally of the Board of Trade, Secretary King, Vice President T. G. Cook, N. E. Cook, Mayor Pawling, W. B. Crawford, P. E. Ross and Frank Bowtell.

THE MERCHANTS BANK

Although Contractor Berry has been buying up for material on the new Merchants Bank building at the corner of Main St. and Second Avenue, it is thought that the building will be ready for occupancy by the middle of the coming month. The work has been done in a first class manner by Mr. Berry and has formed the subject for much favourable comment.

A large number of the latest books just received at the Wainwright Pharmacy, only for a few days only. Also several hundred new paper covered novels at only 15c.

LOCAL MAN NARROWLY ESCAPED DROWNING IN BATTLE RIVER WATERS

G. L. Hudson and James Aitken Miraculously Escaped from a Watery Grave -- Horse Drowned, SANK TWICE

On their return to town from points on the other side of the Battle River, George Hudson and James Aitken, while attempting to make a crossing on Monday evening, miraculously escaped death and a watery grave. The point of fording was being made at the old ranch of Henry Myers, the difficulty occurring when they had proceeded a short way into the water. So deep a hole in the river bed was struck that both jumped from the rig or otherwise would have been drawn entirely under the water. Thinking that his companion could swim, Aitken swam for the shore and on finding that Hudson was in great difficulty, he had sunk for the second time. He immediately swam to his assistance and helped him to shore. Since their arrival in town, both have been congratulated on their miraculous escape.

One of the horses in endeavoring to swim put his foot over the neck, broke and sank below the water. The other animal swam and wriggled to a point, where it was more shallow but not before the other horse had drowned. The animals belonged to Bentley and Grosvenor.

By those who have attended certain meetings in the district of late, it is reported that "Mick" Harpell and H. V. Fieldhouse can do themselves justice on the public platform as well as in ordinary debate. Both of the above liberals spoke at several reciprocity meetings during the past week.

CANADIANS HAVE THE PRIVILEGE OF ACCEPTING RECIPROCITY OR REFUSING IT NOW AND FOREVER

If Agreement is Rejected it will be So for a Generation to Come -- Of so Great Importance is Issue to Judge Results with Any Degree of Accuracy would be Impossible -- Most Strenuous Campaign in Annals of Canada's Political History -- The People's Duty

Estimates on the outcome of the election have been sent out from every community in the Dominion. Some predict a victory for the present administration and the rejection of power of Laurier and his colleagues. Other conjectures, however, foretell a "turnover" and the defeat of reciprocity.

To judge how an election is going is difficult and especially so in elections, where the issue at stake is as important as that now before the Canadian electorate. The campaign has been keenly waged by both parties, liberals and conservatives alike, showing greater interest than in any former campaign. Reciprocity is a measure that has been proposed by both parties. It has been opposed by both parties. It is a question that will be decided by the people. It is a question that will be decided by the people. It is a question that will be decided by the people.

The issue was started quickly, introduced hastily and before the House had an opportunity to consider it, parliament was dissolved and the appeal made to the people. Since the dissolution of parliament, it has formed the only subject for debate, although it has been sidetracked on numerous occasions. The people have had it preached to them on every available occasion, from every possible viewpoint and by the exponents of both parties.

Towards the end of Sir John A. Macdonald's prime, when he found that he was losing his grasp upon the country, reciprocity was advocated. He probably desired it in his appeal to the people, although he may have intended that it go to the people in the form of a referendum. Sir Wilfred Laurier, although he has opposed it on former occasions, now calls upon the people for his return to power by the ratification of reciprocity. Since the premiership of Sir John A., conditions in Canada have undergone a vast change, the West has been developed, two transcontinental lines of railway have been constructed, vast new areas have been opened up, new industries and enterprises have started, two millions of people have entered the country. It is evident that the producing power of the country has increased and with the ever increasing immigration, it would be logical to suppose that the producing power will increase even more. The country will then be confronted with the expedient and profitable disposal of its surplus products. Reciprocity proposes the opening of the American market for this purpose. Canada, however, will not have free access to the American market without a consideration which lies in the agreement that at the same time, American imports will be admitted to Canada free of duty.

The opportunity will thus be afforded of purchasing in two markets, rather than in but one, as at present. Reciprocity has had a history greater than any measure, ever introduced into parliament. It has been advocated and opposed for half a century. The matter of ratification now lies in the hands of the Canadian elector, the Americans have passed it. The result of the polls will show definitely whether reciprocity shall be given a trial with the option of repeal at any time or killed by its refusal from the people. If it is rejected, it will be rejected forever, but if it is accepted, the country will reserve the right to still reject it at any time if it proves unsatisfactory to the best interests of Canada.

Few are in a position to judge as to the outcome. It rests entirely in the hands of the people. They must decide their destiny at the polls. They should deliberate wisely and well before making the final step. Canada's future hangs in the balance. It is to be hoped that no matter how the people decide, the result will bring about a greater, stronger and more prosperous Canada.

W. D. McKay Gets Fire Hall Contract

The contract for the solid brick fire hall has been let, William D. McKay being the successful tenderer. Tenders were advertised for in Wainwright, Edmonton and Saskatoon, the notices appearing in several papers in these places. Mr. McKay's tender, which was for $7,735 was the lowest of the tenders received, it being but $15 lower than that received from Contractor Johnston of Viking. Work has not yet started on the structure, although the work will be under way in the course of the next ten days. Bricks from the local yards will be used in the building.

Water Glass for preserving eggs at the Wainwright Pharmacy.

Pool Rooms Under One Management

Both pool rooms in town are now under one management, F. Hemmings having purchased the two places of business. The transfer of the rooms formerly owned by S. C. Betts took place a short time ago, the business of H. T. French being taken over on Thursday morning last. Mr. Hemmings is now in charge of both businesses and has engaged H. G. Bray as manager for the room formerly leased by him.

The informal dance given in the Auditorium of Friday evening last, was a decided success. A large number were present and although dancing was continued until but twelve o'clock, much satisfaction was expressed. Mrs. Bourchier and E. D. Stimpson supplied the music for the occasion. It is not at all unlikely that others will follow.

BULLETINS OF RETURNS FROM THE ELECTIONS

Arrangements have been completed by the STAR for the election returns tomorrow night. Through the courtesy of Superintendent N. B. Walton and from the efforts made by Chief Dispatcher W. J. McPhoe, a wire will be installed in the Auditorium and a competent operator placed in charge. The despatches will come direct from Ottawa and will be complete in every detail. They will conform in every respect to those being received by the cities and larger centres of the West. A large blackboard has been constructed and is in place on the platform of the hall. Although it is announced in other columns that a small admission fee will be charged, everyone is welcome and the arrangements will be made free of charge.

SCULPTURER WILL DESIGN LOCAL BUFFALO

The Wainwright National Buffalo Park is surely a place of world wide interest. A new feature of the famous herd found therein, will shortly be produced as a result of a visit here this week by Mr. A. P. Proctor, a celebrated sculptor of New York City. Mr. Proctor, who has been intending to visit the Wainwright Park since the hope was first established, arrived here last week on R. C. W. Lett's private car, from points west, where he was observing the habits of other animals, to be modelled by him on his return to New York. Mr. Proctor has recently had a portrait awarded him for the task of designing four bronze buffaloes that will guard the approaches to a bridge to be constructed at Washington, D. C. The bridge will cost $250,000 and the buffaloes, $15,000. A short time ago, he finished a life sized heroic buffalo for a member of the Standard Oil Company, at the same time doing two large steel tigers. He also designed a tiger for the Princeton University, for which he received the medal of honor from the Architectural League and many glowing tributes in the leading American papers. While in company with Superintendent Ellis at the park, Mr. Proctor made several sketches of the herd and took up wards of forty photographs which he will use, when the buffaloes are designed. He visited the park was fraught with many interesting features and on his return he was very enthusiastic in his claims that the reserve afforded a most ideal place for the herd. He also gave great credit to the Commissioner and Superintendent for the mastery manner in which the animals are kept.

Mrs. Proctor accompanied her husband while here and before departing drove to Baxter Lake, where they enjoyed Monday shooting ducks. They expressed themselves as delighted with their trip, which they thought had proved a very enjoyable outing in one of the most beautiful sections of the whole West. They left on yesterday's express for Edmonton and points west.

SUMMER WRAPS IN NEWEST FORM

Braided Marquisette

FIRST, they are transparent. That is the keynote of the summer wraps. Chiffon, voile, veiling, silk muslin and marquisette are the fabrics that are used, and the exquisite models are further beautified by braid, satin, velvet and lace. They are not very warm, 'tis true; but in summer one does not yearn for heat. When the summer girl (or her mother) throws a wrap over her shoulders she will add to the effect of her dress, and although the outer garment will protect, in a degree, her evening or afternoon gown, it will not hide the beauties beneath a thick, unbecoming coat.

Marquisette is used for the black model. It fits the figure closely, and the plain material is braided on the yoke and upper portions of the draped sleeves. A braided border outlines the pointed fronts and the square back. Black satin forms a flat collar and a band on each side of the front. The wrap is fastened under a satin knot above the waist line.

A less elaborate wrap is of black chiffon trimmed with velvet. One width of chiffon is passed over each shoulder, the edges of the two pieces seamed at the middle of the back. The ends of the fronts are gathered into points and tasseled. Black velvet forms a narrow collar and suggests cuffs on the openings for the arms. The fronts are loosely held to the back widths under braid ornaments.

The Dolman Revived

Shawl Collar and Hem of Tulle

The white marquisette wrap for afternoon wear shows a broad hem of filet lace applied in points. A shawl collar and cuffs are also of the favorite lace this summer. White silk binds the collar, front edges and lower line of the loose wrap. The sleeves are full length. The entire coat is cool, yet sufficiently protective for any summer occasion.

It is not surprising to see the empire wraps of blue voile. The bodice is slightly full and is gathered into the fitted skirt with the high waist line. A circular collar with deep revers in front trims the coat, while over all runs a serpentine design in deeper blue braid. Silk bands edge collar, cuffs and skirt hem.

Almost a dolman, but unmistakably a wrap of this summer, is the black-and-white. A draped hood is the evolution of the collar. It is lined with white satin and tasseled. The coat falls in full, soft folds over the arms and the lower edge is rounded and bound with a deep hem of white.

The Japanese coat of blue over gold chiffon is easily made. It is draped before sewing. The sleeves are nothing but satin cuffs of blue and the material falls in folds over the arms. There is a broad facing of satin on the rounded edges of the wrap. A deep lace collar is laid over the satin foundation.

Chiffon cloth of silk is combined with ecru lace in our last summer coat. A deep hem of the lace is used over the chiffon. The broad collar effect is continued in straight bands down the front. Lace is again used at the back and down the underarm seams.

If you were ordering a gown from one of the world-known modistes of Paris, it is probable that an accompanying summer wrap would be shown. The two are considered as important factors of a summer costume that should not be dissociated. Keep in mind your frocks for summer and plan your wrap accordingly. And when in doubt, choose black or white.

The Borderland of Dress

Of Serviceable Chiffons

Again in Dotted Toward

A Conventional Border on Black and White

The Persian Bordered Silk

Hand Painted Muslin

PERHAPS the reason is the practical and money-saving point that border fabrics trim themselves, for they are one of the insistent features of the summer styles. Undoubtedly the bordered dress is convincingly lovely. So take a trip, dear interested readers, into the borderland of dress. It will cost you nothing and you will gain much by the excursion. We really need a magazine for the message of this page is worth while, and should be shouted to all women who are women enough to like good clothes and practical enough to copy good models.

On the chignon dress for evening there is a dainty Dresden border of blue and pink roses. The main body of the fabric is white, with pin dots of black. Black muslin de sole is edged with satin, and used to emphasize the colored border. Two bands pass over the shoulders, and the sleeves show the roses on the outer seam. A pointed bib of chiffon rises from a soft girdle of the same fabric. Satin buttons are used at the belt. The slashed tunic of chiffon is trimmed with the border and edged with tucked mousseline, fringed. A square court train of black hangs a little below the rest of the white silk underskirt.

The orient is still with us. Persian borders are used as much as ever, and the model shows another method of using silk decorated in this way. A bodice and short tunic effect are of the bordered silk. The sleeves are three-quarter length, edged with black. There is a piece bordered at the front of the bodice, arranged to give a square effect. The same idea is carried out on the upper part of the skirt. Fritters and bands of black trim the dress, while the lower half of the skirt is of black satin. Think of the possibility of two remnants, one of which is bordered goods!

If you are clever with your brush, you can copy this hand-painted muslin dress. The bodice is tucked over the shoulders, and shows a gathered circular yoke of set. A tunic is tucked three-quarters of its length, and on the lower edge a border of delicate purple wistaria is painted. The underskirt is of pale wistaria satin, and the four rosettes on the side of the tunic and the folded girdle are of the same soft silk.

Black-and-white silk shows a conventional border used quite simply. A bolero effect is given by applying the border on the bodice in a curved line. The border edges the sleeves, and an applied hem is edged with the border cut in half-and-therefore lasting twice as long. This style is suitable for any dark material of cotton or silk.

Serviceable chilla is to be found in the borderland of dress. The border forms the hem on the skirt. It is used to trim the outer line of each sleeve, and is continued around the edge to form the cuff. The belt is of the border, and a piece is applied above it at the front to suggest a shallow bib. A yoke is fashioned of self-over, and adds an attractive color touch at the top of the collarless bodice.

Dark lawn is bordered with a colored design. This frock is in two shades of blue. The bodice is quite plain, showing crossed bands of the border over a lawn chemise that is trimmed with white crocheted buttons. The circular skirt with a front seam is trimmed with the printed border in straight lines.

Again the dotted foulard in two tones, with its dark border, is here. A jacket effect is attained by placing the border at the top in slanting line. The seam is on the outer edge of the sleeve, thus giving a pointed effect at the shoulder. A vest is shown by the underbodice of silk. Each side is outlined by silk-covered buttons. As this frock is for a tall woman, a double skirt is necessary. The upper tunic is bordered and button trimmed.

And now you are back again in your homes. Surely you have had a profitable trip.

It was the dreary hour after the Christmas dinner, and the girls were talking in the hushed tones appropriate to the occasion.

"I've just been thinking of a new charm to tell whether anyone loves you, and so, my girl, it is," whispered Alice.

"What is it?" queried Caroline, and, smilingly, she showed her new diamond ring.

"Well, you take four or five cheap rings, name each one of them after some man you know, and then put them on the stone, and the first one that jumps is the one that loves you."

"It is," said Sophie. "I know a better way than that."

"Yes, indeed. By my plan you take one certain man, place him on the sofa in the parlor, and close to him, with the light a little low, and look into his eyes. And then, if he doesn't go, you'll know the time to change the man on the sofa."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"Who is the largest, the most reliable, the smallest, the best and the worst dealer in cigars and cigarettes in this city?" Of course the stranger does not know the answer, and a native tells him triumphantly: "The government." "The government has a monopoly, and every person who trades in a tobacco shop—they call them 'traders'—is a government employee. Having had no advanced on cigars and cigarettes on July 1, the shops were crowded on the day before and smoke and ash in stocks as large as their purses would permit." New York Tribune.

For Skin Health

A lifetime of disfigurement and suffering often results from improper treatment of the skin or neglect of simple skin affections. Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, affords the purest, sweetest and most economical method of caring for the complexion, preventing minor eruptions from becoming chronic, and speedily dispelling severe eczemas and other torturing humors, itching and irritations, from infancy to age.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists everywhere. For full directions, see the inside of the box. Cuticura Soap on the face and skin and scalp.

Where Waiting is Banned

German court regulations forbid waiting. This veto decree back to 1880, when the Emperor's daughter, then crown princess, was tripped up by her partner in a waltz and fell at the feet of her mother-in-law, the Empress Augusta. As a result of the incident, the Emperor's daughter-in-law, the Kaiser's wife, was ordered to wear a special dress to bear on him to revive the waltz. Dancing at the court always opens with a polka, and the rest of the programme is filled with waltzes and polkas, and the substitutes and the substitutes.

More Solemn When They Don't.

The next whose daughter had just been united to the husband of her choice looked a little sad.

"I tell you, Sophie," he said to one of the wedding guests, a man of his own age, and himself the father of a number of unmarried girls, "I tell you it is a solemn thing to see when our daughters marry and go away."

The Squire assented, and altogether heartily.

"I suppose it is," he conceded, "but I tell you, it is more solemn when they don't."—Yonah's Companion.

WESTERN TOURIST TRAFFIC

Mountain Hotels Vastly Improved To Meet Continued Increase.

Year by year the traffic to the Canadian Rocky Mountains is increasing at such a great rate that the mountain hotels have some trouble in satisfying all the demand for accommodation during the season.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is continuously improving and adding to the chain of mountain hotels, but even with the extra facilities thus afforded the accommodations are taxed to the utmost.

Every tourist westward takes with it a new contingent of tourists, and it has become the fashionable thing to spend a week or ten days in the mountains before going on to the coast.

Banff, being in the centre of the Canadian National Park, is naturally the centre of the favorite sports, points for travellers. It is situated in a district which is most advantageous for mountain climbing, fishing and other sports.

At this point it is well patronized. Recently the C. P. R. made several new improvements to the hotel, with the result that it is now more popular than ever.

The improvements consist of new wings and a new swimming pool. The wings are built in the form of towers and contain six rooms.

There are also a new swimming pool, a new tennis court, and a new golf course. The hotel is situated in a beautiful spot, and the views are magnificent.

Equal for Him.

A certain American naval officer brought a Chinese servant over the Pacific with him from the Far East. One day the original named Quong home with him from the Far East.

"Go ahead, Quong," commanded the officer. "Then be supplemented."

"Sam as in China," said Quong, "I suppose you will place different kinds of food on your table."

"Now, Quong," continued the officer, "good-naturedly, when do you think your friend will come up to see what you have on his table?"

"All the same time that Mallean man came up to see the flowers you put on his table," said Quong in the same spirit.

DUTY DEMANDS THAT EVERY ELECTOR REGISTER HIS VOTE

Tomorrow the Canadian electorate will be called upon to cast their votes on the most important measure ever before the country. Loyal Canadians will journey miles to register their votes in favor of the pact or otherwise. The polls will be the meeting place of hundreds and in many cases thousands. There it will be that struggle of influence will be extended for the support of either one or the other. Many will heedlessly pass on and tell the inquirer that an opinion has already been formed that is final and definite. Many will go to the polls undecided as to how they will register their votes, fearing lest in marking their ballots one way, they will injure their own best interests. These men, who are thus in a position to be convinced, will be the targets for solicitation from the election agents. Others will no doubt be there, who will be willing to support either one party or the other for a consideration and thus diminish their privilege of British franchise.

Every elector should have a reason for casting his vote. He should ask himself, why he is supporting either party and if he is doing so because he is convinced that that party is the better. If he has voted for one party at the last federal elections, that is no reason why he should rally to its support this time. It seems to be a custom with many to mark their ballots in exactly the same way as they did at the last election and in some cases to support the party, favored by their father and father's father. This should not be the case, however, every elector should be convinced by this time which policy will be to his own best interests. If an elector votes contrary to how he voted last time, he is no turn-out or "Ropper," rather his opinion has changed and he shows that he is not one who has been dyed in the wool. It should be borne in mind that without the change of opinion, governments would never be defeated nor former majorities expelled. There would then be no need for a vote being taken. In the present campaign, it has been revealed on scores of occasions that old party men are deserting and will vote on principle. There is no reason why any elector cannot be justified in doing the same. Every elector has the privilege of expressing his own opinion, whether that opinion be correct or not.

It is stated that Canada is now at the parting of the ways. Many electors realize it and will therefore cast their votes with confidence, clinging to neither one party or the other, considering their own interests first and party secondly. The question then to answer is this, "What party in power will swell my purse? Under what policy will I profit more?" The elector should walk firmly to the polls, with a strong determination of voting in whatever way his convictions lead him.

Whatever the outcome is tomorrow night, the result of the polls will show the wish of the Canadian people. An election campaign, carried through in such a manner as the present one, could be productive of no other result. By this time, every elector has some idea as to how the ratification of the agreement will affect him. Elections in the past have been won by narrow margins, but it is not supposed that the election about to be fought will be won by any small majority. Unfailing interest has marked the proceedings of the campaign. The vote tomorrow should then show in no uncertain terms what the people desire.

As a result of J. A. Rivet, Liberal candidate in Hochelaga, P. Q., stating at a public meeting in Montreal a short time ago that Henri Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, had been bribed by the conservatives and Orangemen of Ontario to support the conservative cause and thereby oppose Laurier, Bourassa has entered suit against Rivet for $10,000 damages. Mr. Rivet is alleged to have stated that Bourassa received subsidies from Ontario to the extent of $200,000, which money went to advance the interests of Le Devoir, the paper controlled by Bourassa.

It is the duty of every elector to exercise his privilege of British franchise. The elector, who stays away from the polls and thereby shows his lack of interest in the question, is not worthy of that privilege, if he can possibly get to the polls. Whatever party you support, support it with your vote and with your influence. If you believe it the right one. Pile up the votes so that after the election you can feel that you have at least done your duty to the country in which you play a part.

The sensation caused last week by the announcement that coal had been discovered in the cellar of the fire hall was sufficient to arouse the town to the belief that it probably possessed wealth that was untold. The report was received with great interest and many viewed the place from which the substance had been taken. Many investigated it as a household fuel and were convinced that it was of worthy domestic value. The find will no doubt lead to further investigation and the probability is that it will be productive of valuable results.

Prohibition has been defeated in the state of Maine by a small majority. For fifty years the state has been dry. The repeal was the result of general dissatisfaction from the means employed by the drinking men in procuring their liquor.

Much praise is due the Edmonton Journal for the very concise table, appearing in its columns last week. The table showed the candidates for federal honors in the election tomorrow. The former majorities of the sitting members were also shown.

ELECTION POINTERS

When the election agents approach you tomorrow, do not appear as if you know it all. There are others, who have studied the question and have some idea as to the situation. They can offer good advice if you are not informed as to how reciprocity will affect you. But don't slide to easy, you might regret it. Be convinced before you vote. Reciprocity is the most important issue ever before the people.

Be careful when you vote tomorrow that you do not lose your vote. At the same time, do not be afraid to express your opinion on the ballot. By all means do not write your name thereon, it will kill your vote. Several instances of this kind have occurred in the past in civic elections.

It is conceded by many, who have observed the feeling in the Upper Provinces, that the fight is confined to Quebec and Ontario and that changes in the other provinces will not greatly affect the result. A more conservative estimate, however, would be that the combined candidates in these two provinces will break even, thus leaving the result directly with the other provinces.

At the conservative political meeting, held at Sligo on Thursday last, several grins from town appeared on the scene as the meeting was well under way and made things rather lively for a time by asking questions. P. E. Ross made a thirty minute speech and was accorded a good hearing. Both parties claim a victory as a result of the discussion.

M. G. Howell, the conservative candidate in the Battleford riding, has re-entered the field. The re-entry was occasioned by the fact that the Independent candidate has withdrawn. Mr. Howell will oppose A. Champsigne, the sitting member for that constituency at the time of dissolution.

Every elector should strain every effort to be present at the polls tomorrow. Questions of national importance will be decided and every citizen should do his duty. The country expects your vote.

If your name is not on the voter's list, you should see that it is placed thereon. Should anything prevent you from doing this you can still vote on September 21st, by applying at the polling booth and taking the oath as to your qualifications as a voter. GET ON THE LIST.

Premier Whitney of Ontario is reported as saying that the man, who votes for reciprocity is not necessarily a liberal and that the conservative who votes for it will not sever his connection with the party. Reciprocity is larger than any party, candidate or leader. It must now be given consideration.

A recent estimate, given out from Calgary and copied by the Toronto Globe, gives Alberta seven Liberal seats. Of course, this is an estimate that is considered a wild one. Others state that the seats will stand in about the same manner as at present, which would appear more reasonable.

Many are determined to give reciprocity a trial and give for their reason the fact that it can be repealed at any time, if it is found that it is proving unsatisfactory. Laurier has said that it can be recalled in a day, in a week, a month or a year from the date of signature.

Lifelong Tories, and grins as well, are jumping their party and voting according to the dictations of their convictions. It is well to see that party politics are losing their grip upon the country and that those, dyed in the wool, are in a class by themselves.

"STAR" IS THREE YEARS OLD TODAY

Paper Founded Three Years Ago
by H. E. Cummer and Continued by L. S. Gower.
Has Had Loyal Support.

With this issue of the STAR, the fourth year of its existence is marked on the book of time. For three years, the paper has received the loyal support from the town and district. During that time, its path has by no means been strewn with roses. Difficulties without number have been encountered on numerous occasions. The paper, however, has survived these vicissitudes and is now rated as one of the best country newspapers in the West. This, of course, can be largely credited to the support, which has been characteristic of its patrons, who have recognized that without their mutual assistance, the paper would cease to be published. It is to be hoped that the standard to which it has been raised may be maintained as time passes.

What a relief it will be when the result of the polls is known tomorrow night. A great many will be relieved of a strain that has, with each passing day, grown to greater dimensions.

FOR SALE—25 M. good brick house for sale cheap. The product of the local brick yard. For particulars enquire of John Taylor.

FOR SALE—20 head of 2 year old steers, weight about 1000 lbs. Price $40 per head cash. Apply to E. E. Mott.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Peterson, who have been located at Melville for the past four months, returned here on Sunday. They will remain here for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Cameron wish to extend their sincere thanks to the friends and neighbors for the very great kindness shown them during the illness and death of their beloved little one.

Mrs. Bowtell, who has been visiting friends and relatives in Lacombe, Vermilion and other points on the C. N. R. for the past month, returned home on Saturday last.

Mrs. E. Carbert, who has been visiting friends and relatives in Gilbert Plains and Dauphin, Man., for the past two months, returned home on Sunday last.

Mrs. B. Culbert, formerly of Vancouver, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Laird. Mr. Culbert, who was here for a few days last week, is now in Calgary, where it is thought that he will open up a real estate office.

FOR SALE—8 two year heifers, 2 yearling steers, good beef cattle.

C. F. Watkins, Edgerton.

Miss Bessie Anderson, who has been in the telephone office here since the service started, left for Edmonton last week, where she has accepted a position in the long distance office.

E. C. Logan arrived here on Sunday from points west, where he has been employed for some time past. It is altogether likely that Mr. Logan will shortly enter business in a certain town in Alberta.

The election returns will be bulletined at the Auditorium tomorrow night, a small admission price being charged. Instruments will be installed on the stage and a competent operator in charge, who will catch all the details on the wire. They will come direct from Ottawa and will be reliable.

CASES DISMISSED AT DISTRICT COURT

Mrs. Barrington vs. Betty Assault Case Not Properly Entered in District Court - Suit for Nonpayment of Wages.

A sitting of the district court was held here in Wainwright & Mills hall on Wednesday last, when several cases, sent up by Justice of the Peace Ross, were heard before Judge Leach. The first case was that of the appeal, made by Mrs. Kinsey, nee Mrs. Barrington, for assault by Arthur Betty. The case was ruled out on account of the appeal not being properly entered in the district court. The action of Mrs. Kinsey against Betty for non payment of wages also came up, the case being dismissed by Judge Leach on the grounds that the agreement between the two parties was for $40 a month and not $20 as claimed by Mrs. Kinsey. H. V. Fieldhouse appeared for the accused. W. F. Kelsie of Viking acted for Mrs. Kinsey.

The Aykroyd case, which had been sent up for trial by Justice of the Peace Ross and Gregory was also tried and dismissed for lack of evidence. One of the most important witnesses for the Crown, Fred Hill, was absent and his former evidence was not used by Prosecuting Attorney Henwood. H. V. Fieldhouse appeared for the defendant.

J. D. Elliot of Irma was a visitor in town on Monday, returning home the same afternoon by the westbound express.

Mrs. P. J. Hastings, formerly of Wainwright, but now operator at Youker, Sask., has been called to Grassy Lake, Alta., on account of the serious illness of her aged mother.

"JILTED"

Hamilton, Sept. 3.—Jilted by little 14 year old Gertrude Gossage Gordon Ross attempted to take his life by swallowing a large quantity of Bug exterminator. Ross drank the poison in the presence of the girl's father and mother to whom he offered a flask of whisky. The poison failing to kill him, he tried to choke himself to death. He now lies in a serious condition.

In Hamilton there dwelt a youth of credit and renown. As good as any of his age in this famous cosmopolis town. Who as he sat at breakfast and devoured his morning sausage. Cast several sets of pop-goo eyes at pretty Gertrude Gossage.

Now Gordon and his Gertrude girl had courted long for weeks. His kite had motioned each square inch of Gertrude's cheek. He didn't think when, every night, she said she loved him so. That Gertrude, who was quite a slip, had two strings to her bow.

Along these WAS another youth, whose name I think was Pickles. Who dabbled around, where Gordon found it hard to scrape up nickels. And off at night when the moon was bright and Gordon was away. He'd take the girl for auto rides and sometimes to the play.

When Gordon found his love was false his grief was and to see "This party," he cried, "a wilderness. Life hath no charms for me." And so that my untimely end may haunt her day and night. I'll wriggle back to Gertrude's home and expire in her sight.

Her Paw and Maw, alone of course—were sitting down to tea when he rushed Gordon, screaming out, "You're daughter's jilted me. I'm going to leave you here and now, but are I ever good bye. I want you both to pledge my health in Walker's Ancient Rye."

The old folks drank the "Red Rye" but the devil he took himself. Came from a can of "Common Sense" he reached from off the shelf. But when he found he had no chance to join the other party.

He struggled hard to choke himself with one of Gertrude's kisses. How long he suffered those three pangs I really cannot say. For they brought the public ambulance and brought him away. And now he lies at "Death's dark door" but if he does recover. He ought to kick the stuffing out of Gertrude and her lot.
